

Future Men, operating as administrators for the All Party Parliamentary Group on Fatherhood, takes your privacy seriously. We will only use your personal information in order to run the All Party Parliamentary Group on Fatherhood. Future Men will collect and hold your data under our Legitimate Interests. This means that we will collect and hold data that is appropriate for the activities that participants agree to take part in and that data will be stored in ways that you might reasonably expect and with minimal privacy impact. Collection of reasonable personal data will form an element of the contractual agreement to participate in activities organised and delivered by Future Men.

As such, Future Men will take on the responsibility for protecting your rights and interests in regards to your data.

Please contact the data protection officer if you have any queries regarding this Privacy Policy or if you would like to exercise or query any of the following rights afforded to you under the General

Data Protection Regulation (GDPR):

- right to access
- right to erasure
- right to object
- right to rectification
- right to be informed
- right to restrict processing
- right to data portability
- rights in relation to automated decision making and profiling
- right to lodge a complaint with the Information Commissioners Office (ICO) – <https://ico.org.uk/concerns> 0303 123 1113

For further information on your rights, please visit the website below:

<https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/guide-to-the-general-data-protection-regulation-gdpr/individual-rights/>

Contact:

If you have any questions about this privacy policy or of our treatment of your personal data, email info@workingwithmen.org or write to:

Data Protection Officer

Future Men

34 Grosvenor Gardens

London

SW1W 0DH

Future Men's data protection registration number is Z3547252

